uplift, and enlighten. This is a testimonial of the utilization of pure mind power and having the knowledge to tap into that vast reservoir of creative and agreeable energy for higher pursuits in life. Through pure mind power I was able to discover hidden truths about self and persevered seemingly insurmountable odds. I was determined to discover my "true self"; I woke up one morning quit my job, abandoned my plush suburban apartment, gave my "hot rod" to my younger brother, then proceeded to surrender my sanity and all that I believed in and began traveling a never ending journey of self-discovery. A lot of time and uncompromising effort was put into completing this portion of The Sik Life saga. The idea for this actually began ten years ago while I was incarcerated at the Tri-County Jail in Mechanicsburg, Oh. I would often entertain and enchant fellow inmates with vivid anecdotes, and articulate with unparalleled compassion, wild and bizarre life stories. Many were more intrigued by my way of life which at that time was Factology/Nuwaubu taught by the man of our day and time, the master-teacher, Dr. Malachi Z. York, who is currently incarcerated under false pretenses ("Free Dr. York!"). I would entertain these cats for hours. Some stories were so entertaining that I would often be compensated to reiterate certain ones.

Twice nominated for the Pulitzer Prize in poetry, Clifton extends her already formidable powers of revelation with these new poems. Her song springs almost spontaneously from her imagination to stitch surreality with concrete imagery drawn from temporal reality, revealing an essential mystery and wisdom from within.

Atlanta Journal Constitution journalist tells the convoluted story of the Nuwaubians and their cult leader, Dwight York, convicted in the largest child molestation prosecution in the United States, begging the question "How did this happen here?"

Even Among The Catholics They Have Clergy That Do Not Subscribe To Literal Interpretation Of Your Bible.
